Threw Bananas at the Cat, Broke Bottles and Turned on the Gas-Chase Lasted for Two Hours-Held as a Hostage by the Son of Italy.

New York Journal: The happlest crea ture in all New York yesterday for sev eral hours was "Joe," a long-talled, snuff-colored monkey belonging to "Professor" Carl Kriesel, the animal trainer.

Under the tutelage of Professor Kriesei "Joe," who is still young, as monkeys go, became an actor a year ago He has delighted great audiences by smoking a pipe, eating with knife and fork and going through the movements of the cake walk.

The professor has been stopping for some weeks at No. 205 East Flfty-eighth street. Yesterday afternoon he bundled his troop of monkeys and dogs into an express wagon bound for a railroad station to catch the train for Philadelphia, where he was to open last night.

Just as the wagon started off with but

In a minute a hundred boys, springing from nowhere, and armed with sticks and stones, gave chase.
"Joé" turned and gave one look of de rision at the swearing professor and the pursuing boys, and spying a half open transom over the door of a corner store, leaped nimbly through the opening and then grinned with derision at the howling crowd outside. "Only five minutes to catch the train, yelled the driver of the express wagon in warning.

An Offer That Was Spurned.

The professor gritted his teetn in an-ger. The store in which the monkey had taken refuge was safely locked. The professor couldn't get in. He had to catch his train. He offered $5 to any boy who would climb through the transom and get the monkey.

"Joe," evidently realizing what was going on, opened his mouth wide, displayed two rows of glittering white teeth—and not a boy could be tempted to go after him.

The professor looked at his watch.
"Drive on," he shouted to the expressman, and then to the policeman, had rushed to the spot thinking there was a fire, he said:

"Don't let that monkey get out. Hunt up the owner of the store and tell him that if he returns Joe to me I'll pay for his damages and trouble!"

"Joe" heard the remark through the plate glass window, and, with a knowing wink at the policeman, picked up a bottle of catchup and flung it with a crash to the floor. The professor shook a warning finger at the delighted animal and then hurried to eatch his train.

By this time there was fully 500 per-

Joe chattered at the cat, whose fur stood on end, and then opened the circus by winding his long tall around one of the chandeliers and swinging himself to and fro. The crowd outside yelled with approbation, and "Jos," with all the instinct of an actor, enjoyed the occasion heartily. After a while he got tired of swinging and turned on the gas. He didn't like the smell of that so he turned it off again. Then he went for the bottles. He hurled a dozen of them at the frightened cat, and then helped himself to bananas.

At last Pasquala Cuomo, the proprietor of the store, and his assistant, who had been hunted up by palebbors orrived. Then began a chase that fasted for nearly two hours. Barrels and boxes and crates were overturned before the monkey was finally caught. Cuomo will hold "Joe" as a hostage until the professor pays for the damaged stock.

To-day's stock market showed clearly that operators in stocks have re-signed themselves to a period of wait-ing and duliness following the abortive bull movement yesterday. Dealings signed themselves to a period of waiting and duliness following the abortive buil movement yesterday. Dealings were on an insignificant scale and the market was almost immovable during the greater part of the session. The drooping tendency in the wheat and cotton markets had the effect of stiffening quotations for some of the railroad stocks, which opened depressed on the score of probable crop damage. Prices had dropped back somewhat when the appearance of the bank statement caused some covering by room shorts. The movement was, however, so feeble that there were some recessions, making the close irregular and very dull.

The loan item of the bank statement confirmed the forecast of these dispatches that the liquidation of sterling loans was probably keeping pace with the demand for new loans to provide for the July 1 statements. This is the only possible explanation of the decrease in the loan account of $1,557,300. The increase in cash of $549,200 fulfilled the expectation that some of the week's requirements for cash had already beat anticipated in last week's bank statement. With the semi-annual settlement per-

Just as the wagon started off with but a few minutes to spare, "Joe" carried out what was perhaps a long deliberated scheme. Pushing open the loose cover of his box cage he made a flying leap and landed on the sidewalk.

Professor Kriegel shouted a command to "Joe" to return. The monkey gave the knowing wink and combination of grunt and squeal that speaks volumes to those who know the monkey land to those who know the monkey land to the continued firm to-day as it has been all week. Peen all week.

Wheat was only moderately active and weak most of the session, although at the bottom the market steadled. It did not, however, show much recuperative power at any time, and was devoid of features. The opening was easy because Liverpool showed no response to the advance here yesterday and also because rains were predicted for the northwest. This caused renewed liquidation through commission houses on a moderate scale and as the demand was rather sheek, the market slumped. European crop conditions were reported favorable. Through an error Beerbohm's report was made to show a shortage in this year's world crop of only 16,000,000 bushels, but a correction received later in the session made this 125,000,000 bushels, but a correction received later in the session made this 125,000,000 bushels, but a correction received later in the session made this 125,000,000 bushels, but a correction received later in the session made this 125,000,000 bushels, but a correction received later in the session made this 125,000,000 bushels, but a screen to 14,000,000 bushels, but a correction received later in the session made this 125,000,000 bushels, but a screen to 14,000,000 bushels, but a screen than the bottom. Minneapolis and Duluh reported 228 cars, against 411 last week, and 524 a year ago. Receipts here were fity-three cars, none of contract grade.

Corn was quiet and although easy in sympathy with wheat and under the influence of rains in parts of Kansas and fair country offerings, recovered later on a good shipping demand and closed steady. August sold between 12½642%c and 43c, closing %c under yesterday at 42%c 24c. Liverpool was 5d lower. The cash business amounted to 250,000 bushels; reccipits here were 772 cars.
